

The Hanover Insurance Group, Inc. Launches OneShield Dragon for Commercial Lines Automation

February 24, 2006 (Westborough, MA) – OneShield, Inc., a provider of rating and policy administration applications for the insurance industry, today announced that Worcester, Massachusetts-based The Hanover Insurance Group has moved into production with their browser-based rating and policy administration system for Commercial Package Policies (CPP), built on OneShield’s Dragon platform.

“Our business community needed a solution that would streamline processes to better respond to customer demands. The technical community needed a platform that could provide for future expansion and leverage our existing system investments” advised Michael Clifton, VP, The Hanover. “OneShield’s Dragon application provided the flexibility and configurability to meet our needs. Additionally, being a tools-based system, our business and technical teams can continue the build out of future lines of business.”

“The Hanover’s skilled implementation teams coupled with their disciplined approach to the project assured success,” added Glenn Anschutz, CEO OneShield. “Our close working relationship with them allowed everyone’s efforts to remain extremely focused on solving the business needs.”
